

Report

North Korea -- 2010 Overseas Diplomatic Directory for Europe and Central Asia

This report updates portions of the 2008 OSC North Korean Overseas Diplomatic Directory¹ and introduces a few modifications and stylistic enhancements to facilitate its use. This directory is fourth in a series of reports that cover DPRK diplomatic missions by geographic region.^a The directory includes photos, when available, of overseas diplomatic personnel as well as such standard information as facility addresses, phone and fax numbers, and e-mail addresses. Personnel changes and new ambassadorial appointments also have been noted when relevant.

Information in this directory is current as of December 2010. As an additional reference, direct links to applicable foreign ministry websites have been provided to enable readers to monitor ongoing developments in DPRK diplomatic activity. Names in the directory have been transliterated using OSC's modified versions of the McCune-Reischauer (M-R) Romanization system. The North Korean-preferred orthography of names -- written as given by each foreign diplomatic source^b -- has also been included in brackets after each entry. Where an exact transliteration cannot be determined due to the unavailability of the original Korean in source materials, approximations of names have been provided.

The 2010 Overseas Diplomatic Directory makes use of the same open-source materials used to compile the 2008 version, including various official foreign ministry websites. A thorough review of these sources yields the following data on DPRK diplomatic missions in Europe and Central Asia:

Abkhazia

No current diplomatic activity observed between the DPRK and Abkhazia.

^b Some diplomatic sources list the given name (first name) before the family name (last name). OSC transliteration of Korean names puts the family name before the given name.
