NRO Joins Facebook

The National Reconnaissance Office (NRO) launched its official Facebook page on August 25, 2014, to increase public awareness and understanding of the NRO and to help educate the public on NRO's unique role in the Intelligence Community. Facebook is the first social media site the agency has joined.

"NRO's social media presence will allow us to engage on the communication platforms many people are choosing to use. The launch of the agency's Facebook page is an important step forward in our ongoing commitment to share the great work of NRO with the public," said Mr. Clinton West, Director of the NRO Office of Congressional and Public Affairs.

This effort demonstrates NRO's continued dedication to the president's call for greater transparency and open government. The NRO plans to join additional social media sites in the future.
