SUBJECT: United States Policy on Nuclear Testing
Arms Control (U)

Based on the review of the U.S. position on nuclear testing negotiations and an assessment of the negotiations to date with the Soviet Union, this memorandum provides my decisions on the principles that will guide further negotiations. (U)

The highest U.S. priority in the area of nuclear testing arms control is to achieve agreement on verification improvements to the Threshold Test Ban Treaty (TTBT) and Peaceful Nuclear Explosions Treaty (PNET) so that both treaties will be effectively verifiable. I intend to ask the Senate for its advice and consent to ratification if such agreement can be reached. (U)

With respect to specific issues related to the TTBT verification protocol:

- The United States negotiator is authorized to agree to include both seismic and on-site inspection elements in the verification protocol.
